

Communication Strategies for Working with Young Parents

Dr. Nicholas Perry and Jenny Macias will present on evidence-based strategies and best practices for communicating and working with teen parents. Dr. Perry will present on motivational interviewing and good communication strategies for working with clients. Jenny Macias, the Director of Partnerships at Hope House Colorado will expand on the presentation by providing proven strategies for working specifically with teen parents. Strategies learned during this session will be immediately applicable for our members in their everyday work with young parents and their children.

 Tuesday, January 16th (2024)

 1:00 PM - 2.30 PM

Assessing the Needs of Teen Parent Programs & Their Clients

This webinar will examine recent initiatives addressing the housing challenges faced by young parents in the state. Madison Caparros, Housing Manager at Florence Crittenton, will present an in-depth analysis of their housing assistance program and the ongoing needs assessment to enhance resources for the young parents they support. Additionally, the webinar will showcase the initial findings from a statewide survey conducted among TPC members, highlighting current trends in program delivery. Participants will have the opportunity to offer real-time feedback on emerging questions, actively contributing to the next phase of data collection and needs assessment.

 Tuesday, January 30th (2024)

 10.00 AM - 11.30 AM

SPEAKER

Nicholas Perry, Ph.D.

Research Assistant Professor
University of Denver

SPEAKER

Jenny Macias

Director of Partnerships
Hope House Colorado

SPEAKER

Madison Caparros

Housing Manager, Student Support Services
Florence Crittenton

2 webinars for $25

or 1 webinar for $20

Register now at :

teenparentcollaborative.org